FOREWORD

The collection, which is now being dispersed, was the property of a late Foreign Diplomat who compiled it with great care and the knowledge of a real student of Ancient Numismatics. Most of the pieces were purchased just before the first World War, partly at auction sales on the Continent, partly from various dealers, among whom the late Dr. Jacob Hirsch, when he was still in Munich; many of the smaller Greek denominations were, for example, bought at the sale of the famous Rhousopoulos Cabinet.

Though the Collection contains very few pieces of great rarity, many of the commoner specimens will commend themselves to the private collectors because of their quality and beauty. In the Greek series worthy of note are the coins of Ainos, the magnificent tetradrachm of the Aetolian League, the staters of Elis - Olympia, especially the superb Zeus head of lot 215 and the Hera head of lot 219; moreover the Athenian issues are well represented. The Roman Aurei constitute a very important section, in which the quality of the pieces is really remarkable; as some of the best, the following could be mentioned: Faustina Senior and Faustina Junior; Lucilla; the gold coins of Septimius Severus and his family, in particular the aureus with the two young Augusti Caracalla and Geta; finally, the superb facing portrait of Licinius Junior, and the attractive Fausta.

The owner had taken a special interest in the Byzantine Empire, which is shown by the very large number of solidi put together, and also by the quality of such pieces generally. Several of these deserve special mention:

- the tremissis of Verina, unfortunately pierced, lot 489;
- the solidus and tremissis of Philepicus Bardanes, lots 582 and 586;
- the excessively rare solidus of Theodosius III, lot 591;
- the solidus of Constantine VI and his mother Irene, lot 606;
- the attractive solidus of Irene alone, lot 609;
- the extremely rare solidi of Nicephorus I, and Leo V and Constantine, lots 611 and 615;
- the solidi of Michael, Theodora and Theda, and of Michael and Theda, lots 617 and 624;
- the solidus of Leo VI and Constantine VII, lot 629;
- and finally the solidus of Michael VI.

One might add that the attributions to Eudoxia and Eudocia are still problematic. From lot 635 onwards, the legends are not given in the catalogue, they can be read from the plates. Often also the description of reverse types has been done briefly, but a look at the illustrations will give the required information. The place of issue of the coins can be taken as being Constantinople, unless otherwise stated.

Let us add a wish, that this catalogue may, in years to come, if not already now, prove of importance and help to the real students, and the sale be a source of satisfaction and interest to many ardent collectors.
